DEDICATION

TO MISS REED

Hard is the task to shape this teacher's praise;
Her judgment scorcs the homage flattery pays.
The gracious charm that in her manner lies,
The serene poise reflected in her eyes,
The sciences and arts with skill combined,
Are signs a noble heart and tastes refined.
Sometimes her words are laden with wit to reach
The laggards and the dullards she must teach.
Our model, guide, and inspiration too,
We dedicate this book, with love to you.

HISTORY OF SENIOR CLASS OF PASCO HIGH—1951

In the year 2000, the inhabitants who survived the third world war, accidentally dug up the "TIME CAPSULE," while digging a cellar. Among other important documents found, was the record of Pasco High in 1945—many years ago. The first five days of their freshman year were very exciting ones. In all the classrooms, they were finally "welcomed" by their understanding homeroom teachers, Miss Reed, Miss Lewis, and Mr. Kuykendall. By the end of the year, they had almost gotten over their fright of their teachers and those senior seniors. After 100 days of toil and struggle most of them were informed that they were sophomores.

During their second year in high school everyone was as busy as a bee prompting progress of all types. That outstanding sophomore class had great success in earning money to buy a water cooler for the new school. During the summer they looked forward to entering their new Pasco III.

Their junior year was an exciting and happy one also. The juniors and seniors combined their talents and produced a very successful operetta, the "H.M.S. Pinafore." That gave the time for the juniors to spend all their hard-earned money on the most expensive Junior Banquet. It was one of the best ever given, with an orchestra and all the trimmings.

When school started over again, the class woke up to the fact that they were designated seniors. They chose their privileges and began to enjoy them. They had a wonderful time hunting, at the Yum's party, and at the slippery picnic. Of course they were very happy when their class rings arrived. They enjoyed the Junior-Senior Banquet immensely and appreciated the work of the junior class in presenting it. All ready it was time for graduation. They were excited and a little frightened at being graduates!

Their graduation was over. They were on their own, some going to college, others seeking jobs in various cities. Would they meet again?
PROPHECY

"Squeak!-Squeak!-Squeak!-Scree-ee-ee-ee-ee Bang! Crash!"

When you and I were young—Crash! Squeak! Squeak! Boom!

Station D.A.E. Ford.
You have just had the pleasure of hearing Miss Anita Jones, famous Metropolitan Opera Soprano, sing one of her favorite selections. You will have heard for five minutes and then be favored by selections from the "The Threepenny Opera," composed of Mr. Forster, Mr. Newmark, Mr. Shubert, Mr. Longworth, Mr. W. C. Handy, and Mr. Danley Thomas; and that splendid song, "Mr. Bill" by Mr. Bill Smithson, Jr. These are parts of the most noted orchestras in the East. It is with the greatest pleasure we present them—but first a brief commercial.

"Do you want to have a sweet dog? A dog that can do a lot of tricks? Then feed your dog Chi-Chi Baby Dog Food today, tomorrow, and every day!"

And now the Hammer Boys.

As I listened to this radio program, I recognized the names of many old friends, but I couldn't place "Chi-Chi Baby Dog Food." I knew that I had heard of this before but I couldn't remember where. Oh well! It was seven o'clock and at seven-thirty I left my two words sentence. My two lines in front of the house, and who should be driving it but old friend, Bill Patterson. We had a hurried conversation while rushing to meet the train. I said goodbye to Bill and proceeded to buy my ticket, wasn't selling tickets! Joyce Williams of course—I was always afraid she would end up behind her. The conductor took my ticket and I settled down to enjoy my trip. I suddenly thought again of "Chi-Chi Baby Dog Food." Where had I heard it?—that my thoughts were interrupted by a lady sowing the train. I recognized the famous world as Alvin Shepard when I had been on P.J.S. To my surprise Alvin wasn't traveling for sale our conversation didn't last long enough.

I decided that I wanted to see Chicago so I gathered up my belongings and got off the train. I bought a rub in the Erie Hotel which incidentally was owned by the Erie directors. We all know. I registered and to my surprise the bell-hop was Fred Smith, Jr. I hadn't seen him since—Oh when was it—25 I guess.

It was time for supper so I decided to find a likely looking cafe and eat. As I strolled down the sidewalk I read a sign that interested me. It said:

Dr. Wayne Honey—Surgeon
My mother had been telling me that I simply had to have my appendix out and here was just the person—on second thought perhaps not.

I continued my walk down the street and stopped at a news stand to buy a paper. I had to look twice before I recognized Merton Pines taking my money. Looking at the sport section I saw where Smith lost to Abrahams! Why? Because Billy HIV was Alabama's coach, of course.

I walked for another couple of blocks and entered the J&J cafeteria. While I was standing in line I suddenly opened to someone next to me and I looked for the owner I heard Dick Smith. I think the food here was not very good because Fred and Ralph just pronounced it was only fair because Fred and Ralph just pronounced it was only fair...not good because Fred and Ralph just pronounced it was only fair because Fred and Ralph just pronounced it was only fair because Fred

I hastily enjoying my meal when I heard a familiar voice that sounded slightly breathless-per serval. Have you, you want it now? You should have—get some North—pitches—Newman. With her were two more of our friends, Leonard Stevens—Backstrom and Joyce Smith.

I finished my supper and decided to attend a movie in which Dick Scott was starring. After this entertainment I went back to my hotel and bed. But I couldn't sleep—I kept thinking of "Chi-Chi Baby Dog Food." That puzzled me.

The next morning I went on a sight seeing tour. About Edgerton was visiting Chicago too, and happened to be on the same train. She told me that Mrs. Longworth Patty Simons were visiting a friend and that once of their entertainers were Baker Benson, English writer; Patty Bickford, chorine; and Jean Douglas, R. N. I enjoyed being in Chicago but I wanted to see New York before my vacation was over.

I caught the 1:15 train and was again riding through the country. It wasn't so terrible, far to New York and I got there in time for lunch. I saw an attractive sign that said:

Dud's Hamburgers—Al.
I turned in and recognized Ernie Waldorf and his assistant, Durs Gowan. They satisfied my curiosity about Clara Watcher. She was now operating "Clara's Beauty Salon" and had a thriving business.

Durs directed me to the Waldorf Astoria which was now owned by Mr. Willis Dow.
I registered and examined my temporary teeth. It was very nice.—Willie, I understand, had worn them since he took over. I picked up the evening paper from my bedside table and plowed at the front page. I read where an apartment house burned down and Betty Bryant, Gertrude Cowl, and Margaret Pitman were rescued from the fire.

Turning to the sport section I read that the Red Penguins beat the Black Penguins by one point. Looking more closely I discovered that on the red team were Edith Hahn, Billy Brown, Wadsworth Jones, Larry Newcomer, and Bill Anderson; and on the black team were Bobby Roscoe, Robert Hickman, Gary Sheerer, James Alfieri and Dick Marsey. Speaking of Dick reminded me of Katherine. I wonder if they ever got married? I thought so.

Glancing at the advertisements I read:

"Feel your dog 'Chi Chi Baby Dog Food!'"

I never had recommended what this sounded of. It was slowly driving me crazy.

Why couldn't I remember ‘Chi Chi Baby Dog Food’?

The next morning as I was eating breakfast, who should come but Miss Margaret Johnson, now a stenographer. She informed me that Margaret Fairall, Gail Spencer, and Cora Lee Davis were new pupils at the F.B.I. College and Horse Station, and Cora Lee Davis were now praised pupils for the FBI College and Horse Station, and Cora Lee Davis was now praised pupils for the FBI College and Horse Station.

After Margaret went to work, I walked up the street and discovered a jewelry shop owned and operated by Peggy Jones, Lilian Wyatt and Alice Robbins. I didn't need any jewelry but I did want a new suit and I dropped by to see if Florence could design a new suit for me, I was already divided on one, it was dieter's wear.

At dinner, I was served by Joan Neath in the L.L. Cafe. I listened about some old friends whom I hadn't seen in years and discovered that Robert Ashel, Ricardo Royce, Metta Spence, and Charles Campbell were in the Army. It seemed that Willard Cane, Johnny Ficks and J. D. Scramplerder preferred the Navy. The radio said:

"Do you want to know a secret dog? A dog that can do lots of the work of one dog. Then find your dog 'Chi Chi Baby Dog Food' beginning today."

Here it was again. I was almost ready to tear my hair but was surprised to see Edwin Ward until I didn't.

She was now keeping books for a prominent law firm. After a brief conversation I continued on my way.

I dropped in a book store to buy a copy of "Nineteen Poems" by Miss Nancy Pugh. I thought this book again looked familiar and I was not surprised Bob Harry. His partner was Betty Jean Preston and they had a booming business.

After an interesting conversation from which I learned that Thomas Phibbens and Richard Babbitt were working in a defense plant, I left the book store.

I was to catch the 5:00 train home and I went back to my room for my bags. On my way to the train I remembered that tomorrow was my mother's birthday and I stepped at a florist to wire her some flowers. They were beautiful because they were given by Jennifer Bumwisk, Betty Slater, and Carolyn Smith. Carolyn said that Eller Skrater was giving a lecture that night on the Einstein Theory and I was very sorry to miss it.

I almost missed my train and so I collapsed into my seat breathelessly. I saw another of my classmates coming toward me. It was Wyman Ralston, and in almost no time we were discussing the good old days at P.H.S.

"Patsy, do you remember all the trouble we had writing the History, Will and Prophecy for the annual?" Wyman asked me.

"How could I forget? It was lots of fun working on our annual. Remember all the silly predictions we made in the Prophecy?" I answered.

"Yes, and now we really do know what happened to them. We made one prediction correct though." Wyman said smiling.

"What?" I asked him puzzled.

"Ann Daniel is making a fortune selling 'Chi Chi Baby Dog Food!'"
